Redistricting meeting draws capacity crowd

BY TRACI BONNEY

A packed room, tension and a few moments of comic relief were the earmarks of the redistricting public hearing held Monday night at the county courthouse.

Diamondhead residents made up the bulk of the 100-plus audience members. The meeting, scheduled to be held in the board of supervisors room, was moved into the courtroom because of the crowd.

Board of supervisors attorney Gerald Gex told the audience the redistricting is federally mandated and must occur every 10 years following the census. This decade, only two districts — 3 and 5 — must be re-arranged. District 3's population exceeds the 6,670 allowed by law, while District 5's population falls below the 6,034 mandated.

Gulf Regional Planning Commission's Ned Boudreaux then gave an explanation of the two redistricting plans being considered. The first alternative would move 628 Diamondhead residents and 420 residents in the Bayou LaTerre-Rocky Hill Road-Dummyline Road area from District 3 into District 5, while the second plan would move more than 930 residents of the area west of Hwy. 603 from Bayou LaTerre to the north county line into District 5. When the floor was opened for comment, Diamondhead Property Owners Association general manager Paul Montjoy told the board and the audience that Diamondhead was in two districts in the 1970s, then was moved into a single district during the 1980s.

"The feeling is that Diamondhead has worked long and hard to get where we are," he stated. Montjoy mentioned an informational and strategy meeting held Thursday at the Diamondhead Country Club and said,

Merchants urged to beware of advertising solicitations

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Mississippi Sheriff's Association recently issued a warning to local law enforcement officials to be alert for an advertising fraud scheme in which a company is using the association's name.

According to association president Joe Ford, people through the state have been approached by a company claiming to be the Mississippi Sheriff's Association and soliciting money for advertisements. Ford said several of the reports stated that the imposter company's representatives have used insulting and vulgar language in dealing with the merchants being called.

Ford stated that unless a person soliciting for ads on behalf of the association has a letter from him, that person does not have the association's support.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said he received a few reports earlier this year about such fraudulent solicitations.

"Any merchants who receive a phone call like this should contact the Sheriff's Department at 467-5101," he said.

St. Patrick's Day parade rolls Saturday in Waveland

BY TRACI BONNEY

It's time for the wearin' of the green again — St. Patrick's Day.

The Waveland Civic Association will hold its annual St. Patrick's Day Parade Saturday, March 16, starting at 2 p.m. Association president Jay Lagasse said the parade will follow its usual route: starting at the intersection of Waveland and Central avenues, the parade will travel east on Central to Coleman, south on Coleman to Beach Blvd., east on Beach to Lafitte Drive, north on Lafitte to Central, then west on Central to St. Joseph, where it will disband.

This year's grand marshal is American Legion Post #77 commander Lawrence Freeman. Lagasse said the grand marshal is selected each year by the civic association's members.

Colleen is Hancock High School junior Lela Odom, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Cowles and was a maid in last year's festivities. Lagasse said the colleen, who must be a junior in high school so that she can return the next year to pass on the crown, is selected by her scholastic average.

Lagasse said the association expects to have 70 to 75 units in the parade. The floats will be the traditional St. Patrick's Day parade floats, but will feature American flags in honor of the troops — especially local ones — serving in the Persian Gulf, he added.

"In my opinion..."

Contract battle continues

Teachers support Hillman

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

A letter from 55 Hancock High School teachers supporting a contract renewal for principal Donald Hillman apparently had little impact on the Hancock County School Board.

School board members sat stoically Monday and listened to high school librarian Barbara White read the letter, then thanked the teachers and moved on to other business.

In the letter the teachers named many programs that have been instituted at the high school during Hillman's tenure. When asked following the meeting about these programs English teacher Kay Lovelace said, when the teachers saw the need for a particular program and requested support from Hillman, he "went to bat for us." She continued, "The principal is the one the teacher has access to. We follow a chain of command, which has worked well."

Hillman's contract for the 1991-92 school year was denied on February 15 following votes by Lennette Necaise and Kay Sones, which blocked the superintendent's recommendation on February 22. By state law, the board has 30 days from the date of request to set a hearing.

Randolph reported that no action was taken by the board Monday on the Hillman hearing.

According to Randolph, the hearing date must be worked out between attorney Jim Keith and Hillman. Hillman requested a hearing for renewal.

Thomas cast the only approving vote. Board president Frank Miller abstained and Carol Bustetter was absent. (Bustetter was incorrectly reported in a previous article as being absent three times this year. This was her third absence during her term of the past three years and two months.)

A mass will be celebrated on the feast day of St. Joseph, March 19, at St. Joseph's Chapel on Dunbar Avenue, Bay St. Louis, marking the church's ninety-fifth anniversary.

Betty Benvenuti, in doing research of the chapel's history, reports she was able to find the exact information on the church in the archives of The Sea Coast Echo.

This information was found in the March 21, 1896 issue of The Echo.

To further verify the chapel's history, a plaque was recently retrieved from the belfry by volunteer John Yatalese.

Mrs. Benvenuti said, "In the issue May 16, 1896 of The Echo, there was also an article about the blessing of the chapel and its bell."

Mr. Yatalese volunteered to go into the belfry and take care of bees which were causing problems with parishioners during church services. Mrs. Benvenuti asked him if he

The Cedar Point area of Bay St. Louis was very prosperous during this time due to the Dunbar Seafood Factory and several other enterprises, Mrs. Benvenuti reports.

March winds fan weekend fires

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

County Forester Mark Jamieson reported that over the weekend the county suffered wood losses from 17 separate fires which were fueled by the seasonal winds.

According to Jamieson four of the fires were sizable: 40 acres along the edge of the marsh, west of Ansley; 40 acres in Springwood Park, west of Bay-side Park; 33 acres between Highway 603 and Hancock North Central Elementary School; and 22 acres at the Gumbo Festival site, off of Highway 603, near Necaise.

Of the four fires, the marsh fire near Ansley was reported as arson while the other three were cases of trash burnings which spread out of control.

"The fire near Necaise," said Jamieson, "happened when one man dropped his lighter in the grass and by the time he could reach down and pick it up, it was already too big for him to stomp it out."

He added that on both Saturday and Sunday, humidity percentages were low and wind speeds were high, providing ideal weather conditions for the spread of fire.

"People need to be reminded to take extra precautions during the month of March," concluded Jamieson.

The 13 other fires ranged in wood losses between one and 20 acres, Jamieson said only one of the 13 fires was from trash burning, the remaining 12 were cases of arson.

Many of the fires classified as arson are unintentional. A lit cigarette tossed from a passing car or a walker discarding a struck match, may not be what we envision as an act of arson, but it is legally deemed as such.

The intentional arson, with a can of gasoline and torch, are far and few between, according to the forestry office. The most frequent offender is the average unthinking Joe.

County teachers support Hillman

The following is the text of a letter presented to the Hancock County School Board during Monday's meeting, as read by high school librarian Barbara White:

Thank you for accepting me as a representative of the faculty of Hancock High.

When we found out that this board had voted against Mr. Randolph's recommendation to rehire Mr. Hillman as Hancock High principal, the faculty met and decided to write you the letter of February 22 which said we supported Mr. Hillman and wished to address you on his behalf.

There was no coercion used to get teachers to sign this letter. It was put on the counter in the library, and the staff came by at their leisure and free will.

This afternoon, at 1:45 p.m. Mr. Randolph came to my office and issued your invitation to one faculty member to speak to you. We hurried up and met as a group to decide what to say to you tonight, and I am here to say it.

This is what the faculty of Hancock High said to say to you. By the way, people who had not signed the letter were in the meeting and had input.

Mr. Hillman is a leader. He gives objective help to all his faculty and staff. Our test scores have gone up under his leadership.

He has brought modern technology to Hancock. He has caused us to be a leader on the Coast in instructional management and the tracking of core objectives.

The transition between the old school and the new building, and the combining of faculties, were done with ease under his leadership.

Mr. Hillman supports student organizations which involve national clubs, conventions, etc. A lot more students are involved in these clubs because of his support.

There has been less teacher turnover in the 11 years he has been here, and this encourages continuity in the curriculum.

He is constructive and fair in his dealing with the faculty. He discusses a problem in a professional way. He treats us like professionals. He follows through with what he says.

Mr. Hillman is well-trained and forward-thinking. He is open to innovative ideas and programs.

Some of the new programs which have come to Hancock since his tenure are: art, word processing, J.T.P.A. (Job Training Partnership Act), Saxon Math, 7th grade pre-algebra, 8th grade algebra, advanced placement English, A.P. Pascal, A.P. junior English, German by satellite, Channel One, diversified technology, keyboarding, jobs for Mississippi graduates, trigonometry, analytic geometry, Child Care which receives college credit, in-house assertive discipline in special education, computer remediation, and all scheduling.

This faculty has a good working relationship with the administration and with you. We would love to have you come over and see what is going on at the high school.

But we really don't understand how two votes can be accepted as a majority on a board of five and we also don't understand how this affects teacher due process.

We don't understand how a board may or may not accept the superintendent's recommendation when there are no written charges against an employee.

(Fifty-five out of 62 faculty members signed the letter of support.)

Easter Sunrise service

The annual Hancock County Community Sunrise Service will be Sunday, March 31 at 6:30 a.m. on the lawn of Christ Episcopal Church, 912 South Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis.

The Reverend James Flanagan of The Assembly of God Church will bring the message with other pastors participating. The choir of the Presbyterian Church will lead the singing. Refreshments will be served following the service courtesy of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

In case of rain, the service will be inside the church.

He said no reference was made in the letter to indicate the date was other than final.

Hillman has previously said he wishes for the hearing to be open to the public.

Keith stated that the date fulfills the board's obligation to set a date before the 30-day limit, but that the date is still subject to Hillman's approval.

Keith explained that once a hearing date is confirmed and both sides are presented, the hearing officer may or may not give a recommendation. The board reviews transcripts of the hearing and Hillman is allowed one last opportunity to speak to the board in his behalf. The board then makes the final decision.

Wittmann, in a phone conversation, said his role as hearing officer is in "an advisory capacity."

"I normally write an opinion and the board can accept it or not."

would have never found the church's complete history," Mrs. Benvenuti emphasized.

The following is a copy of the article appearing in The Sea Coast Echo, Saturday, March 21, 1896:

"St. Joseph's Church

Thursday, March 19th, was the feast day of St. Joseph and in Bay St. Louis, the celebration by the Catholics of the place, was marked by the blessing of the new chapel, erected near the cannery factory and just completed.

The first or initial mass, at 9 o'clock was largely attended by people from all parts of the Bay, and in addition the convent and college pupils attended in a body, and it was they who furnished the choir music, including the college orchestra.

Very Rev. Father Leduc celebrated mass, and, in a most fitting manner spoke of the patron saint of the new church. The cornerstone has not been placed, but it is intended to be in position some time during May, when in the presence of high officials of the faith, the ceremonies will be conducted. St. Joseph's Chapel was built through the efforts of Rev. Father LeDuc and Father Alphonse.

The chapel was built for the convenience of Catholics of that vicinity, a parish which is of a considerable number and with good promise for a constant and rapid increase."

The story on the blessing of the chapel and its bell appeared in the Saturday, May 18, 1896, edition as follows:

After the 1947 hurricane, the chapel's size was doubled in keeping with the same design.

City Echoes

"...The blessing of St. Joseph's Chapel and its bell took place Sunday afternoon. Rt. Rev. Bishop Heslin officiating and assisted by Revs. Father Leduc and Father Alphonse. The two ceremonies were very impressive, and the remarks on the occasion made by the Bishop were both instructive and interesting.

The bell, weighing nearly two hundred pounds, is one of magnificent proportions and make, and is the donation of generous people who are good friends in many ways to the people of Bay St. Louis.

On a gold plate attached to the bell frame is the following inscription, "Donated by G.W. Dunbar's Sons, on the occasion of the first communion of Susie Olga Dunbar, New Orleans, April 26, 1896." The sponsors were Miss Susie Dunbar and Mrs. Frank Dunbar Jr."

The Chamber Pot of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will be held on Monday, March 18 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Civic Center on Longfellow Drive.

This is a Red Beans and Rice Business Mixer function of the chamber, and I am hoping there will be a lot of folks who will take advantage of The Chamber Pot on Monday.

The cost is $4 plus a business card per person. The meal will include red beans and rice, sausage, bread and a beverage, plus good business mixing.

The host and chef for this affair will be Nick Breazeale of Nick's House of Catfish.

I am looking forward to the luncheon.

The 44th Annual Spring Pilgrimage sponsored by the Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs will kick off on April 1 this year at the Stennis Space Center and Welcome Center.

This is only a few weeks from now, and now is the time to start preparations if not already started.

One of the prime efforts of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will be a complete cleanup of U.S. Highway 90 and Highway 607 from Interstate 10 to the Waveland city limits.

Waveland and Bay St. Louis are scheduled to take care of their respective city limits.

The Chamber's Beautification Committee is spearheading a cleanup on the morning of March 23 of the entire section of Waveland's city limits to I-10.

Three two-mile sections of the highway are already adopted, one by BayShore Realty, the Lions Club, and the third by Bay-Waveland Garden Club.

This leaves another seven miles of highway needing addressing, as I am sure the other six miles will be taken care of in time for the Pilgrimage.

One must remember that the weekend between the 23rd and April 1st is Easter.

Groups or individuals interested in helping may call the chamber at 467-9048 for further details as much help is needed.

Community support needed in drug and alcohol fight

Our law enforcement officials deserve a pat on the back for making significant progress when it comes to combatting one of Mississippi's biggest problems.

What I refer to is a poison that affects all ages, whether it's in our classrooms or our workplaces. It's a poison that has the potential of destroying families and friends. We are beginning to get a handle on this problem, but much more work is needed if we are ever to eliminate this nuisance.

I'm talking about the poison of drug and alcohol abuse.

First, the Mississippi Legislature has acted to fashion a tough drug bill that strengthens penalties against those who abuse drugs. I strongly support these efforts to fight drug and alcohol abuse.

However, as much as we depend on state and local law-makers to contain this poison, we cannot expect our police to do it alone.

We need to enlist the help of educators, parents, employers, community leaders, doctors, mothers, fathers, sisters and brothers to act as frontline forces in this effort to eradicate substance abuse.

How serious is the problem? Let's look at some statistics recently released by the Drug Research and Education Association of Mississippi Inc.—DREAM:

* Two decades ago, less than 2 percent of teenagers had tried illegal drugs. That figure has skyrocketed in 1991—nearly two-thirds have used drugs before graduation day.

* Every week, 100,000 elementary school students abuse alcohol.

* A quarter of all teenagers in America use marijuana on a regular basis.

* One out of six students has tried crack cocaine.

* About 20 percent of those undergoing drug treatment have not even graduated from high school.

* In 1991, 7.5 million teenagers need treatment for substance abuse.

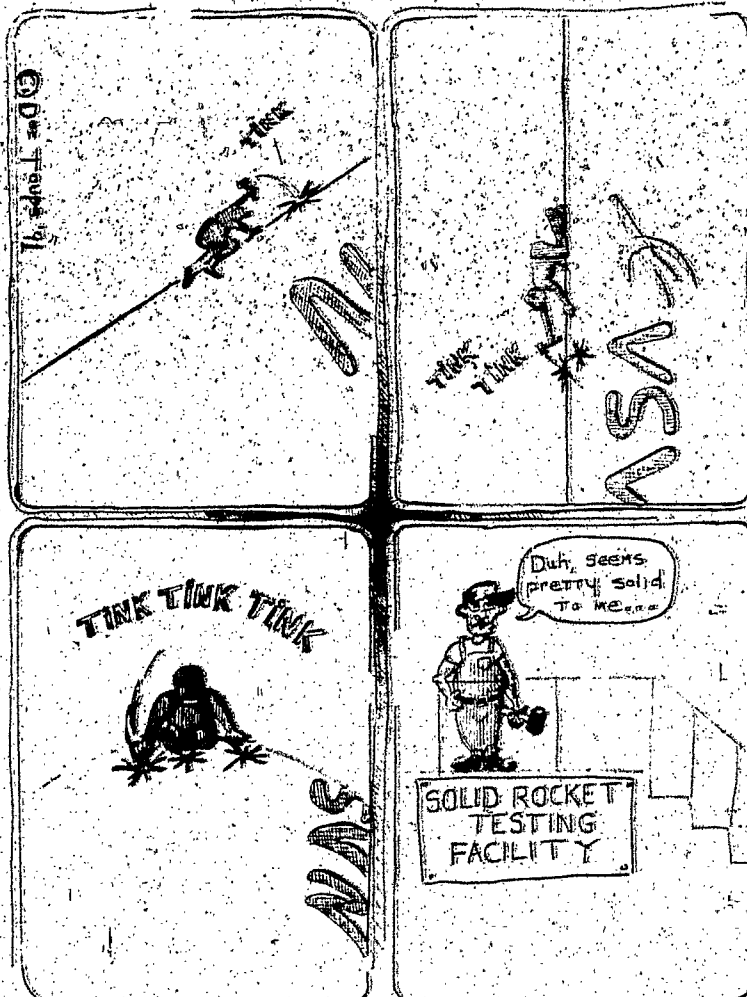

Those figures are strong testimony as to why we can't ask law enforcement to tackle the drug problem alone.

I encourage communities to start up and support local efforts to fight this poison. We need to stand together if we are ever to control this disease that affects so many Mississippians.

By contacting DREAM Inc., you can get more information. Their statewide, toll-free number is 1-800-233-7326.

Our children are under a lot of peer pressure to try drugs and alcohol. We must offer assistance and encouragement to our sons and daughters to break the habit, or better yet, to stay away from these poisons altogether.

Let Mississippi lead the nation in the fight against substance abuse.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

Legislature has to face task of redistricting

State lawmakers in the next few days get down to the unpleasant decennial task of redrawing district lines of the 174 seats in the Legislature, amid signs of bitter infighting between factions in the Mississippi House.

What makes legislative reapportionment naturally rather distasteful is that it means some legislators are going to be left on the sidelines when the remapping of districts is over. And since there is a strong sense of self-preservation among politicians, nobody wants to vote himself out of office.

For background, the Mississippi Legislature went all the way from 1890 until 1975 without reapportioning all legislative seats on a population basis, defying for seven decades its own constitutional intent to apportion seats after each federal census.

Only after a landmark U.S. Supreme Court ruling in 1961 held that state legislatures must be apportioned on equalized population did Mississippi lawmakers finally begin to correct some of the most outrageous population imbalances between its legislative districts accumulated over 70 years.

However, not until 1975 after several trips to the federal courts did the Legislature ever meet the "one person-one vote" mandate of the Supreme Court. Then, in 1979, Mississippi became the first state to be ordered by the high court to establish single-member legislative districts that also do not dilute black voting strength.

After only recently getting the complete 1990 census figures, the Legislature is faced with completing a reapportionment plan for this September's elections before the scheduled adjournment of the 90-day 1991 session on April 7 or having to extend the session. The other possibility would be to come back in a later special session, something most legislators oppose.

Whatever plan lawmakers hammer out will have to pass muster with the U.S. Justice Department under the 1965 Voting Rights Act and possibly face a constitutional attack in federal court by black civil rights forces which are closely monitoring the reapportionment process.

In the event the lawmakers do not come up with a redistricting plan that meets federal guidelines in time for this fall's elections, there are precedents that a federal court could order legislative elections delayed or permit use of the existing plan until new elections are called next year.

One rumor around Capitol corridors last week was that some lawmakers want to drag out the reapportionment process or come up with an unacceptable plan in the hopes legislative elections will be put off until next year to free them to campaign against Gov. Ray Mabus' re-election this fall.

What was more tangible last week, however, were indications that Speaker Tim Ford's forces in the House are mapping a strategy to produce a redistricting plan that would eliminate some key House members who favor unseating him as speaker.

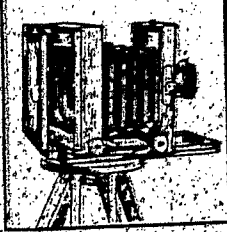

This is all part of the continuing factionalism that has split the House since Ford's failed move at the beginning of the 1990 session to change the 1987 "reform" House rules so he could gain more power.

Speaker Pro Tem Cecil Simmons who organized the opposition to Ford's rules changes has openly said he will seek to elect veteran Rep. Ed Perry of Oxford as the next speaker. Simmons has been a top figure in the 1987 House reforms which ended the reign of powerful House Speaker Buddie Newman. He had also spearheaded Ford's election as speaker in 1988.

Some of Ford's key backers, who were former members of the Newman "Old Guard" had sought to oust Rep. Frances Savage of Brandon, as chairman of the House Apportionment Committee. Savage, now a backer of the Simmons faction, is outnumbered by pro-Ford forces on her committee, and is apparently under constant harassment from them.

Savage has made it clear that she would make no deals to preserve any lawmaker's seat but would honor incumbency if it is possible to meet federal guidelines.

Incumbency can be taken into consideration in any plan taken to the Justice Department, but if a federal court takes over the redrawing of district lines, incumbency goes out the window.

Fairness and equity—The goal for redistricting

As the Legislature winds down the 1991 session, we can expect a flurry of last-minute activity, from balancing the budget to adoption of the myriad of resolutions commending a host of Mississippians with varying degrees of recent success and achievement.

With all the emphasis on the budget, taxation, education and other important issues, the work goes on in what may, in fact, be the single most important issue in 1991.

Under the issue of legislative reapportionment. Now that the census is behind us, we have the task of realigning legislative districts to match population changes.

Mississippi suffered through 70 years without legislative redistricting—from 1890 through 1960—and the state still suffers in some respects from that failure to reapportion.

Now, however, Mississippians can be reassured that, under the direction of Senator Hainon Miller of Greenville, the issue of reapportionment is in fair and capable hands.

Under Senator Miller's direction, the people of Mississippi can be assured that the highest priority of the legislative committee moving toward redistricting is fair and equal representation. That's all anyone could ask.

Youth Court loses two staff members

BY TRACI BONNEY
State fund cutbacks and a resignation have led to a staff shortage of two personnel at the Hancock County Youth Court, according to Judge Michael Haas. One vacancy is that of the county district's school attendance officer, formerly filled by Frank McNeil. McNeil, who resigned recently, said personal reasons and better employment opportunities elsewhere led to his decision to leave. His responsibilities have been re-assigned to Youth Court Administrator Yvonne Landry until the state fills the vacancy. The other vacancy is that of youth court counselor, provided by the Office of Youth Services. Landry said she hopes the state will fill this position quickly, as the number of cases concerning delinquency and children in need of supervision has increased substantially. She added that when the State Department of Finance and Administration was contacted concerning the positions, department spokespersons informed the court the vacancies could not be filled at this time because of funding shortages. Haas said, "I am most hopeful that the two positions will be filled soon, but the Court's work will continue despite the shortage of staff."

Waveland recycling center is one year old and in jeopardy

The Waveland recycling center, a non-profit project of Gulf Coast Recycling and LAOS Inc., is one year old.

From February 1990 through January 1991, the center paid community recyclers $19,744 for diverting 270 tons of recyclable materials from the local waste stream, including 23 tons of aluminum, 26 tons of glass, 171 tons of newspaper, 44 tons of mixed paper, magazines and cardboard, three tons of plastic and 507 automobile batteries. That's the good news.

The bad news is that the non-profit community service is in danger of closing. The number of community recyclers using the center has dropped dramatically from October 1990, and the operation is unable to meet its operating expenses.

LAOS Inc., the United Methodist mission project which has heavily supported the development and the operation of the recycling program, cannot continue to subsidize it at the current level.

Unless the public's use of the center grows significantly and very rapidly, Waveland and Bay St. Louis area recyclers will lose their recycling buy-back center, which operates at no cost to taxpayers, cities or the county and provides a cash incentive to area recyclers.

"In order to make ends meet, the center needs to receive a minimum of 8,000 pounds of aluminum cans and 80,000 pounds of newspaper each month. The other items help, but aluminum cans and newspaper are the mainstay of our inventory. There is a dependable market for these items, and we can ship them to market at a reasonable cost," said Rev. Penny Penrose, executive director of LAOS.

The center is currently receiving an average of 2,500 pounds of aluminum and 35,000 pounds of newspaper per month.

Lisa Coward, Hancock County District 3 supervisor, is working to help raise public awareness about the recycling center's existence and importance.

"We can't just let this program drown in debt. It's providing an important community service at no cost to local taxpayers or governments, and we need it."

"I'm glad Gulf Coast Recycling has been willing to invest in our communities by coming here and hanging on, at a significant financial loss, for a full year."

"I guess Earth Day wore off a little, and we let things slip. Now we all need to get behind the center and actively support the environmental concerns it represents. I know the people of Hancock County care about the environment and we really want to recycle. We've just got to get busy and do it."

Penrose said, "We know the potential is there, because every household, business, local government and institution in Hancock County generates thousands of pounds of recyclable waste each year.

"Diamondhead residents led the Coast by developing the first curbside recycling program in our region. Our Lang Beach Drop-Off Center is booming. Our Bay Vista Center in Biloxi paid community recyclers $70,000 in 1990 and processed 1,121 tons of recyclable materials."

"With our landfills reaching their capacity and growing public concern about the toxic effects of incineration, we all know that recycling is the centerpiece of the solution to our solid waste crisis. It's here to stay, and we need to build recycling into our lifestyles and teach our children to recycle now—because their future, the health of their environment absolutely depends on it."

She continued, "Our non-profit recycling centers provide employment and circulate money back through the local economy. We don't make a profit, but we do need to meet our operating expenses."

"We're going to give the Waveland center another 30 days. If the public's use of the center begins to pick up quickly, we'll support the operation a while longer. If not, we'll simply accept the message that we may be getting—that Waveland and Bay St. Louis aren't ready to benefit from this kind of free community service."

"We pay the public top dollar for their recyclable materials, rather than charging taxpayers a monthly fee to pick them up. All you have to do is drop them off while you're out shopping or running errands. Pretty soon it will be easy—a normal part of your week. The environment will be better protected, and even gradually restored. When we all learn to recycle."

The Waveland recycling center is located at 949 Hwy. 90, east of Lydia's Audubon Shop and directly across the street from the Small Animal Hospital.

Hours of operation are Tuesday and Thursday from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m., and Saturday mornings from 8 a.m. to noon.

Recyclable materials must be properly prepared and separated, and the center staff hands out simple instruction sheet advising resident on correct preparation and separation procedures and prices.

Community recyclers are paid cash for the materials they bring to the center, or they may choose to donate their recyclables to help offset the center's operating expenses.

MSU banquet on Coast for engineering alumni

The Mississippi State University College of Engineering and Dean Robert A. Altenkirch are interested in launching an MSU Engineering Awareness campaign. This campaign will be initiated at a buffet banquet for MSU engineering alumni Tuesday, March 19 at the Airport Holiday Inn in Gulfport.

The banquet is being organized by the Gulf Coast members of the MSU Engineering Advisory Committee, Dean Robert A. Altenkirch will be the guest speaker.

The primary objective is to inform MSU engineering alumni of the current activities and programs being undertaken by the College of Engineering at Mississippi State. Given this information, alumni can determine how they can be involved with the college to help contribute to continued progress.

An additional objective includes determining interest in forming a Gulf Coast chapter of MSU engineering alumni.

If you are interested in supporting the College of Engineering efforts to keep its alumni involved, your participation in this banquet would be greatly appreciated.

Spouses and guests are invited to attend. A cash bar will open at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will begin at 7:30 p.m. Advance reservations are necessary; therefore, those who plan to attend should include a check for $12 per person made payable to MSU Engineering Alumni to:

Lee Welch, c/o Mississippi Power, P.O. Box 4079, Gulfport, MS 39502.

Your prompt reply will better enable the committee to prepare for the MSU Engineering Awareness banquet. If you know other MSU engineering alumni in the Gulf Coast area, please provide this information to them," a spokesman said. Additional information can be acquired from Welch at (601) 865-5517 in Gulfport, or Lin Ward of Stennis Space Center at (601) 688-3505.

We wish to express our appreciation at this time by thanking each member of the Main Street United Methodist Church, for allowing us to build their parking lot.

It is rare to see a large job such as this one being built by local people.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

St. Patrick's Day, that exuberant occasion when just about everyone becomes an Irishman for the day, is celebrated with far more fanfare all over America than there is in all of Ireland on that day!

In this country, as you know, St. Patrick's Day is celebrated with parades and rousing music and parties, and mountains of corned beef and cabbage, but in Ireland, St. Patrick's day is more of a religious holiday honoring the country's patron saint.

And, in place of corned beef and cabbage, you'll more likely find salmon, smoked or otherwise, at table; for that's the national dish of Ireland, held in high esteem ever since the days of the great kings and chieftains of Ireland, and always the piece de resistance at their lavish banquets.

Of course, corned beef and cabbage are served in Ireland, but not together as a rule, although in America this is considered a typical Irish dish—and a tasty one as well!

So, on St. Patrick's Day, I shall probably dine on corned beef and cabbage, but shall first enjoy a bit of smoked salmon as an appetizer!

And, of course, I shall have potatoes on the menu, as well, for this hearty vegetable has been a mainstay of the Irish diet ever since the 17th Century, when potatoes were brought to Ireland from the New World!

A variation on the corned beef and cabbage theme is Corned Beef and Cabbage Salad—shredded raw cabbage and julienne strips of cooked corned beef mixed with diced bell (green) pepper, then dressed with a well seasoned vinegar and oil mixture.

Perhaps I'll start the day with those potato pancakes which the Irish call "boxty" pancakes, akin to their "boxty" bread. Here's:

BOXTY PANCAKES

3 medium baking potatoes
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup unsifted flour
3/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. caraway seed
1/2 cup oil (approximately)

Peel the potatoes and place in a bowl of cold water as they are peeled. Working with one potato at a time, pat dry and grate coarsely into a bowl containing the beaten egg. Mix in the flour, salt and caraway seed.

Pour enough oil into a large skillet or onto griddle to coat the bottom generously, and heat over moderate heat. For each pancake, add 2 tablespoons of batter to the hot oil, and spread thin with the back of a spoon. Fry for 3 minutes on each side, or until golden brown and done, adding oil as needed. (Four servings; 12 to 14 pancakes.)

And, I shall end the day with:

IRISH COFFEE

For each serving, put a teaspoon or a drizzle more of sugar into your stemmed goblet or other glass, or coffee cup, and add enough extra-strong hot black coffee to dissolve the sugar, and stir well; and, if you're using a glass, be sure to place a spoon in it lest the hot coffee crack the glass!

Add a generous jigger of Irish whiskey (or other) and fill the glass to within an inch of the rim with more coffee. Float a tablespoon of whipped cream atop, but DON'T mix the cream into the coffee, just sip the whiskey-laced coffee through the cream!

Cabbage ladies

Members of the American Legion Post #77 Ladies' Auxiliary in Waveland will be serving their annual corned beef and cabbage dinner at the post home on Coleman Avenue Saturday, March 16, starting at 11 a.m. before the St. Patrick's Day parade. Port and Harbor grants Calgon gas pipeline easement

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission passed a resolution to convey to Calgon Carbon Corporation of Pittsburgh an easement for a gas pipeline at the new factory site in Bienville Industrial Park, with the terms of the agreement to be worked out at a later date, as advised by commission attorney Robert Genin.

The commission went into executive session for about 30 minutes to discuss the easement resolution, came out of executive session to pass the resolution and then returned to executive session to discuss the a new prospect.

Approval for a $500 invoice from Raymond's Electric for modifications to install electric doors to the T-Hangers at Stennis Air Park was given by the commission following an explanation by commission engineer Carlos Cordon of Cortech, Inc. Cordon explained to the board that the building was not wired for electric doors, since originally manual doors were planned as a cost savings. Since that time, the manufacture offered the electric doors (approximately 40 feet in width each) at the same cost as the manual doors. The engineer advised the doors be used to avoid time loss, for the manual doors would have to be fabricated, and because of the advantageousness of the price.

Gene Phillips of Phillips Aviation, the fixed base operator of the Air Park, asked and received approval from the commission to spend $470 for the renovation of a room in the Park office building.

Phillips said the extension of the room was needed to accommodate meetings.

Phillips also reported that Stewart Flying Service requested to continue their present class, which ends in May, so as to not subject the students to a loss.

The board agreed to allow the service at the Air Park until May.

The commission also reported that the work on Road E at the Air Park, between the new high school and the vo-tech school was presently in the control of the County Engineer, Larry Seals.

Commissioner Dave McDonald said, the foundation work was packing and curing during these past months and with the approaching better weather should be completed soon.

He added that the county was to take bids on the asphaltting of the road and the commission would then pay for the cost.

In other business the commission approved general operating docket items 1-84; the railroad operating docket; the Industrial Park revenue docket; and the general obligation bond of the 1990 docket.

Get off the bus!

The Kindergarten class of the Head Start Program at St. Rose de Lima, in honor of Black History Month, re-enacts the historic incident where Rosa Parks is arrested for sitting in the front of a city bus. Rosa Parks (Alicia Williams) is ordered by the bus driver (Dawn Richard) to go to the back of the bus while passengers Christine Berry, seated next to Rosa, and Cherie Jeffords witness the action. The play, flawlessly recited by the children, began with Rosa's exhausted entrance onto the bus and ended with the bail bondsman (Nathaniel Harvey) paying for her release from the jailhouse. Rose Schwartz, enthusiastically, played a complaining white woman who insisted Rosa move from her up-front seat. Charles Adolph portrayed the policeman. Other bus passengers were, Courtney Coles, Damon Adolph, Randy Thomas, Carress Benoit, Khien Tran, Jessica Chizmadia and Tracy Wheeler. The play was under the direction of teacher Judy Tate and teacher aide Henrietta Barnes. (Echo staff photo by Jacqui Cochran)

ON PATROL

BURGLARY

Investigator Matt Karl of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department reported the arrests of two men in connection with the January 30 burglary of two Pearlinton houses.

Karl said the arrests stemmed from the apprehension of Marion L. Schmidt, 23, on February 25. Schmidt was charged with two counts of burglary and held without bond because he was on probation from Georgia on burglary charges.

Arrested this week were Joseph "J.J." Antoine, 21, of Bay Side Park, and LeRoy J. Ellis, 19, of Sumrall. Each one was charged with two counts of burglary and incarcerated under bonds of $10,000.

The items taken, of which about 70 percent have been recovered, include assorted bottles of alcohol, a television, a VCR, fishing tackle, a Winchester 22 rifle, a 12-gauge Remington and a .410 shotgun.

FALSE PRETENSES

Investigator David Parker reported the arrest of a Pass Christian resident on a false pretense charge.

Parker said Melvin Troy Floyd, 20, was arrested and charged with false pretense, contempt of court and driving with a suspended license. The investigator explained that the false pretense charge stemmed from the contempt of court charge.

According to Parker, Floyd gave the name Reggie Cook when he was previously arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. When he failed to pay the fine, a contempt of court warrant was issued against him.

When Officer David Sellier served the warrant, Floyd gave his true name, Parker said. However, he added, Officer Clifton Malley identified Floyd as being Cook.

Floyd is incarcerated under a bond of $10,750 and faces a five-year prison sentence for false pretense if convicted, Parker said.

Natural causes ruled in man's death Sunday

BY TRACI BONNEY

The death of a Bay St. Louis resident Sunday has been ruled to have been by natural causes, according to Hancock County Medical Examiner Norma Stiglet.

Stiglet said Joseph M. Hill, 49, died of natural causes early Sunday morning while driving his car on Hwy. 90 in Waveland. She added that any further medical details were confidential.

Waveland Police Officer James Varnell reported that Hill was found around 4:30 a.m. March 10 slumped over the steering wheel of his car, which was in a wooded area near Hwy. 90.

Varnell explained that Hill was westbound on Hwy. 90 near the former location of the Little Donna's lounge when his car crossed the highway and came to a stop against some trees.

"From the marks on the neutral ground and on the highway, it appeared that the vehicle jumped the neutral ground, went into the east lane of traffic, traveled about 200 feet and went into the woods."

Varnell said a witness found Hill in the car, went to Mason's Exxon station and called the police. Hill was taken by ambulance to Hancock Medical Center, where attempts to revive him failed, the officer added.

Officer Chuck James was in charge of the investigation, Varnell said.

Hancock child released from USA Medical Center

A spokeswoman for the University of South Alabama Medical Center reported Wednesday that two-year-old Crystal Rudd was released from the hospital after being transported there Sunday.

Rudd, the daughter of Bay Side Park resident Tommy Rudd, was injured Sunday when her father's truck rolled over her, according to Hancock County Sheriff's Investigator Matt Karl.

According to Karl, Rudd reported that the incident occurred about 10:15 a.m. Sunday while he was working on the truck. Rudd said his two sons, seven and nine years old, were in the truck and one of them evidently knocked the vehicle into gear.

Crystal was taken to Hancock Medical Center, then transported to Mobile.

"The feeling in the meeting that night was, 'Let's stay together.'"

Cliff Couture, chairman of the Diamondhead Community Council, reiterated Montjoy's statements and told the board Diamondhead is in favor of the second alternative, which would leave the community intact.

He said Diamondhead will do anything — "and I mean anything" — to stay together.

Howard Lizana, who said he was representing "the country people", told those present, "Everyone seems to forget that we're part of District 3."

Addressing a remark to the Diamondhead residents, he continued, "We'd like to see you all divided just like the rest of us are divided."

Grant Tingstrom of Bay St. Louis almost started a verbal battle when he remarked, "I don't know why Diamondhead deserves special treatment when the rest of us don't get it." Board president Ronald Cuevas quickly stopped that line of debate by asking if anyone else had comments "relative to the reason for this meeting."

While some people at the meeting said Diamondhead's reason for wanting to stay in one district concerned political power, Diamondhead resident Larry Rolfs said, "We only have one little road. All we're asking is to stay together to keep up our little piece of road."

Other remarks were made both for and against keeping Diamondhead in one district, and one audience member suggested the community incorporate so that it won't have to rely on the county for maintenance of what is currently a county road.

The high point of an otherwise tense but tame meeting came when Bay St. Louis resident Tom Clarke stood and remarked that Diamondhead residents had just as much right as the black community did to ask to stay together.

Clarke said that he doesn't live in Diamondhead, but if he did and if he were registering a complaint about the redistricting, the board would have a problem.

He then referred to a remark Gex made earlier about hand-delivering the redistricting plan to the Justice Department next week while he's in Washington D.C. "If you really want to muddy the waters," Clarke said, "get a black man from Diamondhead and send him up to Washington after Gerald."

While the audience roared, Cuevas took the microphone and asked, "Can anyone possibly follow that?"

No one tried.

At the request of several audience members, Lisa Coward and Mike Ladner, supervisors for Districts 3 and 5, gave brief statements. Both said they would rather not change their districts at all, but they had to comply with the federal mandate.

Cuevas told the audience the board would probably vote on the redistricting plan at Friday's regular board meeting.

Collins-Hourin, White-Smith take Diamondhead Pro-Am tennis tourney

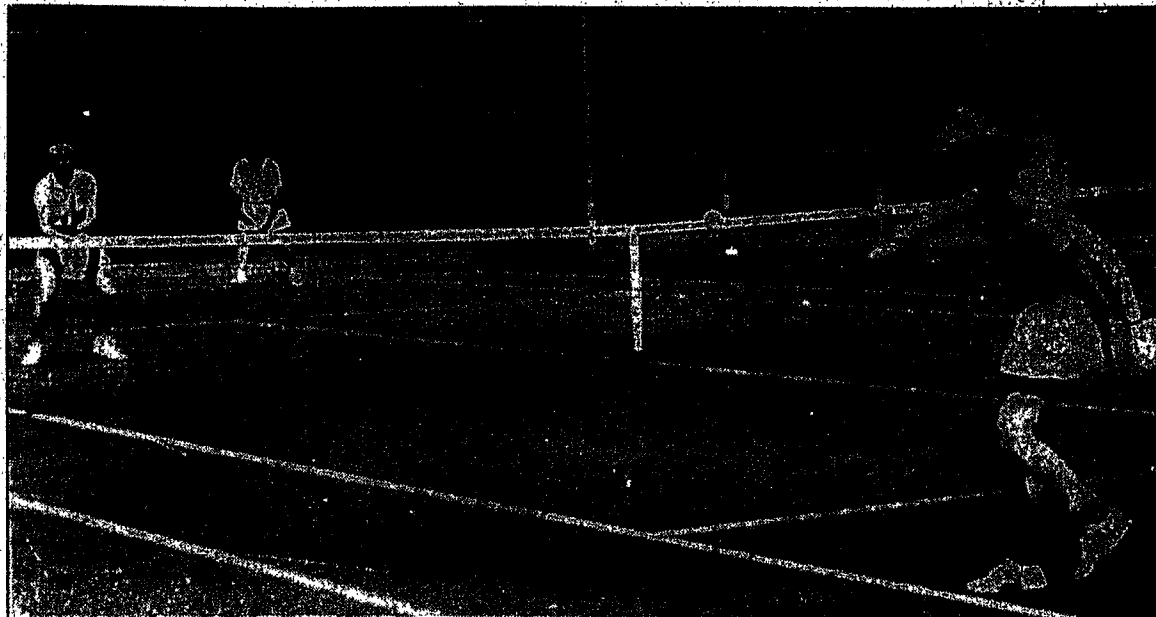

The Second Annual Exceed-Diamondhead Pro-Am Invitational Tournament resulted with Jan Collins of Atlanta and Patty Hourin of Diamondhead netting the women's doubles, while Norman White of Gulfport and Gordon Smith of Slidell took men's doubles.

According to tournament director Magnus Eklund, Collins-Hourin were coming from behind all day, barely making the playoff when in the final set, down 3-1, they won five games in a row to take the match.

"Collins played a dominating game," said Eklund, "while the amateur, Hourin, complemented Collins."

"White and Smith were a very evenly matched team, which in the end made the difference."

Reaching semi-finals in the women's doubles were: Debbi Heim of Mandeville, La., paired with Mary McDonnell of Diamondhead; Liz Lagarde, professional at Bayou Bluff Tennis Club in Gulfport and ranked #1 player in Mississippi, paired with Susan Ritten of Diamondhead; Jan Collins, #1 mixed doubles player in the southern USA for 1990 and ranked #2 in women's 35 in Georgia, paired with Patty Hourin; and Jan Saloum of Long Beach, paired with Pat Minear of Baton Rouge.

Coast Episcopal Raiders set record basketball season

The Coast Episcopal Raiders finished the 1990-91 basketball season setting a school record for wins, compiling an overall 29-14 record.

The Raiders were the regular season MPSSA South 1A co-district champs and the tournament runner-up. They made their first ever appearance in the South State Tournament, and for the second year in a row, participated in the Small High School National Tournament in Dayton, Tenn. The Raiders were also co-champions of the Southern Christian Conference.

In the South State Tournament, the Raiders were defeated by the eventual state champion, Central Hinds, and the same held true in the national tournament, as they were knocked off by the national champion, Del City, Okla.

Bruce Hull, Tyrone Jones, and Dave Hagan were named to the MPSSA All-District Team, with Chris Painter and Nathan Guice receiving honorable mention. Bruce Hull was named the MVP of the District, with Jack Hutchison being named Coach of the Year.

Southern Christian All-Conference first team performers were Bruce Hull, Tyrone Jones, A. J. Ashe and Chris Painter. Dave Hagan received honorable mention.

Hull also participated in the MPSSA North/South All-Star game in Jackson.

Other highlights of the year for the Raiders: a school record 116 points scored against Hammond, La.; and the snapping of Reserve, Louisiana's 40-home game winning streak. The Raiders also scored over 100 points in five games this season.

Hull ended the season as the leading scorer, averaging 27.2 points per game, with Jones tossing in 14 points. A. J. Ashe added 13 points a game, with Painter pitching in 10.4. Hagan added eight points, and Guice canned 6.3.

Painter was the leading rebounder, pulling down 10.3 per game. Jones was the assist leader with 3.8 per game and also the steal leader with 3.2.

The Raiders graduate only one senior off this year's team, so next season, once again, looks promising. Over the past two seasons, the Raiders have compiled a 49-30 record.

"I think the kids have come a long way in the past two years. We thought it would take us three years to compete at the state level, and I think we're right on course for that," said Raider Coach Jack Hutchison.

Waveland jockey recovering from Friday racing injury

Waveland jockey Jeff Colson, injured March 8 at the New Orleans Fair Grounds, was listed in fair condition at Mercy Hospital Tuesday, according to hospital spokesman Roland Newell.

Colson sustained spinal injuries during a schooling race Friday when he was thrown over the head of Todd's Relish, who broke a leg and was humanely destroyed.

Schooling races are unofficial races to provide horses with experience in competition.

Colson was taken to Mercy Hospital by ambulance after lying still for several minutes near the three-sixteenths pole. According to a replay of the accident, he landed on his head.

He was initially listed in critical condition.

Rock thinclads look good in distance track events

The 1991 edition of the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw Track team will have a tough act to follow—the 1990 team.

Last season's Rock runners, hurdlers and jumpers took the Division VIII-AAAA championship, the 4-A South State championship, and finished third overall in the state meet for the best season in SSC's history.

Key contributors from last year's team will not be with the Rocks this year. Pole vaulter Gary Ponthieux attends USM as a track signee, Shannon Garrett attends Mississippi College and is a football signee, and Chris Reich has signed with Ole Miss track.

The Rocks do, however, return some quality athletes. Senior Brian Brooks was the 4-A Cross Country champion this year. Last season he was the South State champion in both the 1600 and 3200 meter runs.

Brooks was also the Clarion-Ledger Meet of Champions champion in the 3200 meter run, competing against runners invited from all over the state.

Brooks has also set the division record in the 1600 and 3200 meter runs during his freshman and sophomore year. In his junior year he did the same thing and also set the state record in the 800 meter run.

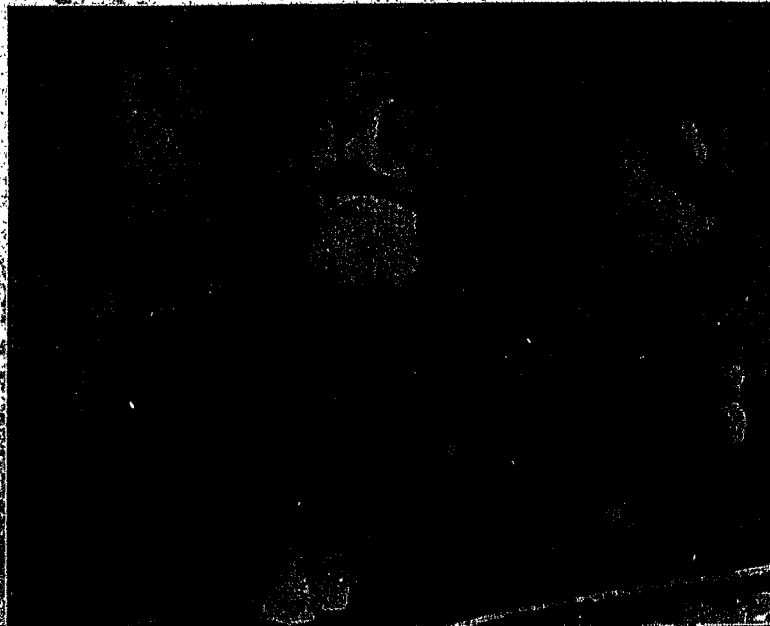

"Brian is training exceptionally hard this year," according to Rock track coach Larry Ramsey. "Provided he stays healthy," Ramsey continued, "he is going to have an outstanding year." Senior Galen Smith was the record-setting division champion last season in the triple jump, and he also won the discus. He finished fourth overall in the state and, according to Ramsey, "he should have a good year in the field events."

Paul Johnson, also a senior, is the returning division champion in the 400 meter run as well as a good high jumper. "Paul will provide help in the sprint relays," Ramsey said. "He is a super team leader."

Newcomers to the team this year are junior Chris Kehoe who should provide good back-up to Brooks in the distance events. "Chris is a very dedicated track athlete," Ramsey noted, "and the coaching staff is going to enjoy working with him."

Drew Seafide, a freshman, will be moved up to the high school level to work with Brooks in the 800 meter run. "Drew looks like a young Brian Brooks," Ramsey commented. "He has real good work habits and his running form's really

PRC set for three doubleheaders

The Pearl River Community College baseball Wildcats will return from the Spring Break with three straight doubleheaders on the Wildcat diamond.

The Wildcats, under head coach Jim Nightengale, have a 2-2 ledger with two victories over the Holmes Bulldogs and two setbacks against the Gulf Coast Bulldogs.

Gulf Coast's Rob Holiday had two hits and three RBIs to help the Bulldogs beat the Wildcats 6-2 in the first game of their doubleheader in Poplarville. In the second game Brian Howell got three hits and three RBIs as the Gulf Coast beat the Wildcats again 6-2.

Scott Morgan of Columbia and Zack Pace of Oak Grove each had home runs for the Wildcats.

Gulf Coast is 8-1 overall and 2-0 in the South Division.

The Wildcats will play Jones Tuesday, March 19; Jeff Davis on Thursday, March 22; and Southwest, Saturday, March 23. All are home games and they start at 3 p.m. The second game will be played under the lights.

Bay High defeats Mercy Cross 4-3

On Friday night the Bay High Tigers played the Mercy Cross Crusaders at Tiger Stadium.

At the top of the first inning Mercy Cross picked up one run on one hit, making the score 1-0.

In the bottom of the first the Tigers picked up two runs on base on balls by Scott Barnes and Jamie Kingston. With two runners on, David Weems singled to score two runs.

At the top of the third, Mercy Cross went without a hit, and David Weems retired the side with 2 K's. Mercy Cross picked up no runs, no hits in the third inning, and Weems picked up two more K's.

Bottom of the third inning the Tigers picked up one run on two base on balls to Charlie Mitchell and Trellis Haynes. The runners advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Thomas Brinks and a sacrifice fly to center field by Jamie Kingston to score Mitchell from third. With the score 3-1, the game became defensive for both teams.

In the top of the sixth Mercy Cross picked up two runs on a base on balls and two errors by the Tigers. This tied the score at three all and it stayed that way until the bottom of the seventh, when Thomas Brinks walked, followed by Amie Kingston with a walk.

With two runners on, Chris Barlow had the game-winning hit with a double to right center that scored Brink from third.

In the top of the seventh Charlie Mitchell came in relief of Weems and gave up two singles before retiring the side. The Tigers will play St. John at home on Friday at 7:30 p.m. and will travel across town to play St. Stanislaus on Saturday at 2 p.m. in Rock-A-Chaw Stadium.

Tiger tennis squad's record at 3-1 for season

Special to the Echo
By Coach Michael Ladner
The Bay High tennis team is off to a good start in the young season with three wins and one loss.

Victories have been over St. Martin twice and a win over Picayune.

The loss came at the hands of defending district champion Pass Christian.

MONDAY, MARCH 11
Bay High 3, St. Martin 2

The Tigers traveled to Hiller Park in Biloxi for the second time in two weeks and defeated the home-standing Jellow Jacks 3-2 in match play.

Winning matches for Bay High were Susanna Cameron over Terri Province in girls singles 6-2, 6-3. Trent Farve and Jermain Labat over Kurtis Johnson and Kyrre Skjetne in boys doubles 6-4, 6-4. Janelle Bufkin and Amanda Francabandera over Brandi Barnett and Jennifer Mallet in girls doubles 6-1, 6-2.

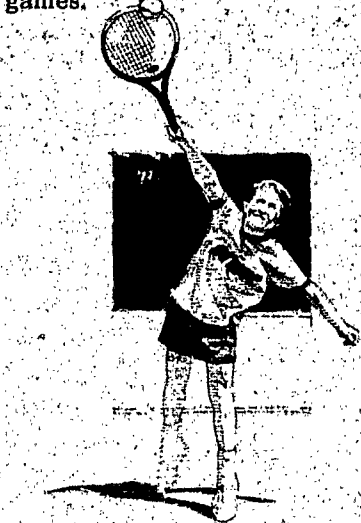

Those Tigers playing well but falling short were Bret Foreman and Kelly Oliver to Eric Overstreet and Tina Province in mixed doubles 6-6, 2-6.

Also, Lee Murphree, substituting for the injured Paul Compretta, and playing in his first varsity match, lost a hard-fought contest in boys singles to Mike Rowlands 2-6, 2-6.

THURSDAY, MARCH 7
Bay High 2, Pass High 3

Bay High traveled to Pass Christian for their third away match of the season and survived the gnats but fell short 3-2 to a good Pass High team.

Leading the way for the Tigers was boys singles player Paul Compretta who picked up his third victory of the season, defeating Gary Ulrich 6-0, 6-0. In three matches thus far, Paul has only given up five total games.

The second victory of the day for Bay High came at the hands of the mixed doubles team of juniors Trent Farve and Susanna Cameron as they defeated Tu Nguyen and Sheleana Alexander 6-0, 6-2.

Senior Janelle Bufkin, playing doubles throughout her career, tried her skill at girls singles and played very well against two-time defending division champion Jenni McKay in a close loss, 3-6, 4-6.

Doubles team Jermain Labat and Bret Foreman lost to Gary Dubuison and Noah Emerson 4-6, 1-6. Girls doubles Kelly Oliver and Miranda Smith lost to Carolyn Moyer and Jennifer Theobald 1-6, 3-6.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6
Bay High 4, Picayune 1

Traveling to Picayune, Bay High fell just short of winning all five varsity matches as the boys doubles team went to the third set and lost a close battle.

In that only setback, Bret Foreman and Jermain Labat fell to Steve Little and Bill Gilley 6-3, 4-6, 4-6.

In other varsity action Paul Compretta played very good tennis, not allowing his opponent any games as he beat Ryan Catoire 6-0, 6-0.

As Compretta had done to his opponent, so did mixed doubles Trent Farve and Susanna Cameron in not allowing their opponents Chris Stevenson and Kim Easterling any games, 6-0, 6-0.

In the other two wins for Bay High Janelle Bufkin defeated Kim Easterling 6-4, 6-3, and Kelly Oliver and Susanna Cameron defeated Sara Mitchell and Leola Harralson 6-0, 6-3.

FEBRUARY 28
Bay High 4, St. Martin 1

In the first match of the year for the Bay High Tennis Team, the varsity squad was able to take four of five matches from St. Martin at Hiller Park in Biloxi.

Paul Compretta defeated his boys singles opponent Eric Overstreet 6-2, 6-3. Janelle Bufkin defeated her girls singles opponent Amy Wilberding 6-3, 6-2.

In doubles action Susanna Cameron and Miranda Smith defeated Terri Province and Kyrre Skjetne 6-3, 7-5. The mixed doubles team of Kelly Oliver and Jermain Labat defeated Tina Province and Kyrre Skjetne 6-3, 7-5. The boys doubles team of Bret Foreman and Lee Murphree were defeated by Kurtis Johnson and Mike Rowlands 0-6, 0-6.

Dear Friends,
Hello from your friends in the Persian Gulf. All of the men onboard USS Wisconsin would like to thank you for the wonderful yellow ribbon ceremony.

It was very uplifting to see such support from you back home. The newspaper clipping and Christmas card lifted our spirits and morale. These tokens of support made us proud to be serving our country. The candy was enjoyed by all members of the crew.

From all the sailors on Wisconsin, our thoughts and prayers are with you.

Ocean Springs walk benefits multiple sclerosis

On Saturday, April 5, approximately 400 Gulf Coast residents will join 250,000 Americans nationwide who will put their best feet forward to make a mile of difference to those with MS in their first annual SUPER CITIES WALK™.

Step-off time is 10 a.m. at National Lakeshore Park and the route will take walkers past scenic sites through Ocean Springs.

The funds raised through the thousands of pledges collected will also go to support vital research into the cause of and cure for multiple sclerosis, as well as to provide important local services for the more than 2,000 people with multiple sclerosis in Mississippi.

Multiple sclerosis is a chronic, often disabling neurological disease that short circuits the central nervous system. Each week, 200 adults, typically between the ages of 20 and 40, are diagnosed with this disabling disorder.

As yet there is not known cause or cure or way to prevent MS, but there is hope through the significant advances being made through the research and services supported by the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

The Society, founded in 1946, is the only national voluntary health organization in the United States devoted solely to supporting international research on multiple sclerosis, as well as supplying services to people with MS and their families through its network of more than 140 chapters and branches.

For more information on how you can get involved in the SUPER CITIES WALK™ call the Mississippi Chapter at 863-2537 on the Coast or 922-7979 in Jackson.

Input sought by DWFP on wildlife conservation

The Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks has scheduled public meetings to get input from the general public on hunting and fishing, Mississippi's marine resources and the state park system.

Department experts will be on hand at the meetings to answer questions about game, fishing, state parks, marine resources and wildlife conservation.

Each meeting will begin at 7 p.m. and will be held at the following locations:

March 14, Pearl River County Courthouse, Poplarville

March 27, Marine Education Center, Biloxi

At the meeting the public will be given an opportunity to express their views on Mississippi wildlife conservation regulations and state park operations.

Possible regulatory changes could include deer bag limits of four bucks and four does; half day hunting on the opening day or weekend of dove season; and limiting shot size during daylight hours, excluding deer gun and turkey season, to no larger than No. 4 shot for shotguns and no larger than .22 magnum for rifles and handguns.

Steel shot used by waterfowl hunters would not be affected.

Waterfowl stamp competition now open

Rules and regulations for the 1991 Mississippi Waterfowl Stamp Competition are now available. Judging will be May 29 at the Mississippi Museum of Natural Science, 111 N. Jefferson Street.

Entries are due at the museum by 5 p.m. May 21. They will be on display May 22-28.

"This year's rules have been fine tuned," said Jack Herron, MDWFP executive director. "As a result of a recent workshop attended by 13 artists and other professionals, we have produced rules and regulations for our program that will continue to benefit Mississippi's waterfowl resources."

Unlike past winners, this year's winner will receive a $5,000 cash award and 50 artist proofs, said James Walker, waterfowl stamp coordinator. The top four alternates also will receive cash awards. The MDWFP will own the artwork and coordinate the marketing of limited edition prints.

The 1991 design may be created from one of five eligible species: mallard, gadwall, Canada goose, green-winged teal, or canvasback.

To obtain a copy of the rules and entry form, write: Waterfowl Stamp Coordinator, P.O. Box 451, Jackson, MS 39205-0451.

Writing to Read: a new twist on two of the 'three Rs'

PHOTOS AND TEXT
BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Principal Clementine Williams has great reason to be excited these days.

The Charles B. Murphy Elementary School is one of about 65 schools in Mississippi selected to receive a Writing to Read system. North Bay Elementary School in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland district also was selected.

The system is a computer-based program which instructs kindergarten and first grade students in basic English skills. The idea behind the program is that once certain phonic sounds are learned, any word in the English language can be spelled.

The computers serve as guide and tutor. The children listen as the computer "says" a word, the manipulate a directional arrow, answering questions and practicing various phonic unions, thereby creating new words.

Example: f-ish, d-ish.
As each child enters the center, the room where the system is used, he finds the program of the week, filed by color code, and goes to the computer. Through the program, the computer directs the child. When the child is finished, he replaces the program.

The child then goes to the listening library, where he finds a color-coded book and audio tape which match the completed computer program. He listens and reads along from the book. Here the words learned on the computer are practiced in sentence structure.

Upon completing the audio/reading exercise, the child returns the tape and book and moves to the writing area. The concepts and words he has learned are now applied as he writes.

Williams invited several parents recently to see the program for themselves.

Jurline Spencer, mother to kindergarten Latessa, said, "I love it. She's learning words faster than my other children who did not have it. She is sounding out and trying to spell all sorts of words."

Penny Torgeson, a kindergarten teacher explained, "Usually they (the children) are intimidated, especially on paper and pencil. But with the computer, they want to do it for themselves."

The computers tend to arouse the children's interest because it requires a physical involvement for the child, Williams explained. They touch, see and hear the creation of each new word.

"The program is especially helpful for the special education students," she added. "They love the doing."

First grade teacher Cindy Ladner explained that, as an exercise to stimulate the children's imagination, she read three-quarters of a book to them and then stopped. She asked the children to go to the computers and write their own endings. "The results pleased her, for the children tried to spell out words far beyond their present abilities."

Recognizing the quickness with which the children are grasping the program, Williams said, "I feel the program will make my children better writers and readers."

She explained that not only are kindergarten and first graders benefitting from the program, but she has encouraged her second and third graders to use the room for reading and comprehension reinforcement.

Though the program just arrived at Charles B. Murphy in January, Ladner said the children are keeping journals, which is usually something a child doesn't do until years later.

The Writing to Read Program was created by John Henry Martin, a teacher, principal, superintendent, professor and author. He worked in the area of children's learning for 35 years.

With his wife, Evelyn Martin, he tested his theory that "children best learn to read by being taught to write," for five years with more than 900 South Florida students in public and private schools.

A two-year National Demonstration Project began in 1982 involving 10,000 kindergarten and first-grade students in more than 100 schools in 17 school systems.

The Educational Testing Service (ETS) of Princeton, New Jersey, found that first graders who had been through the Writing to Read program exceeded national norms.

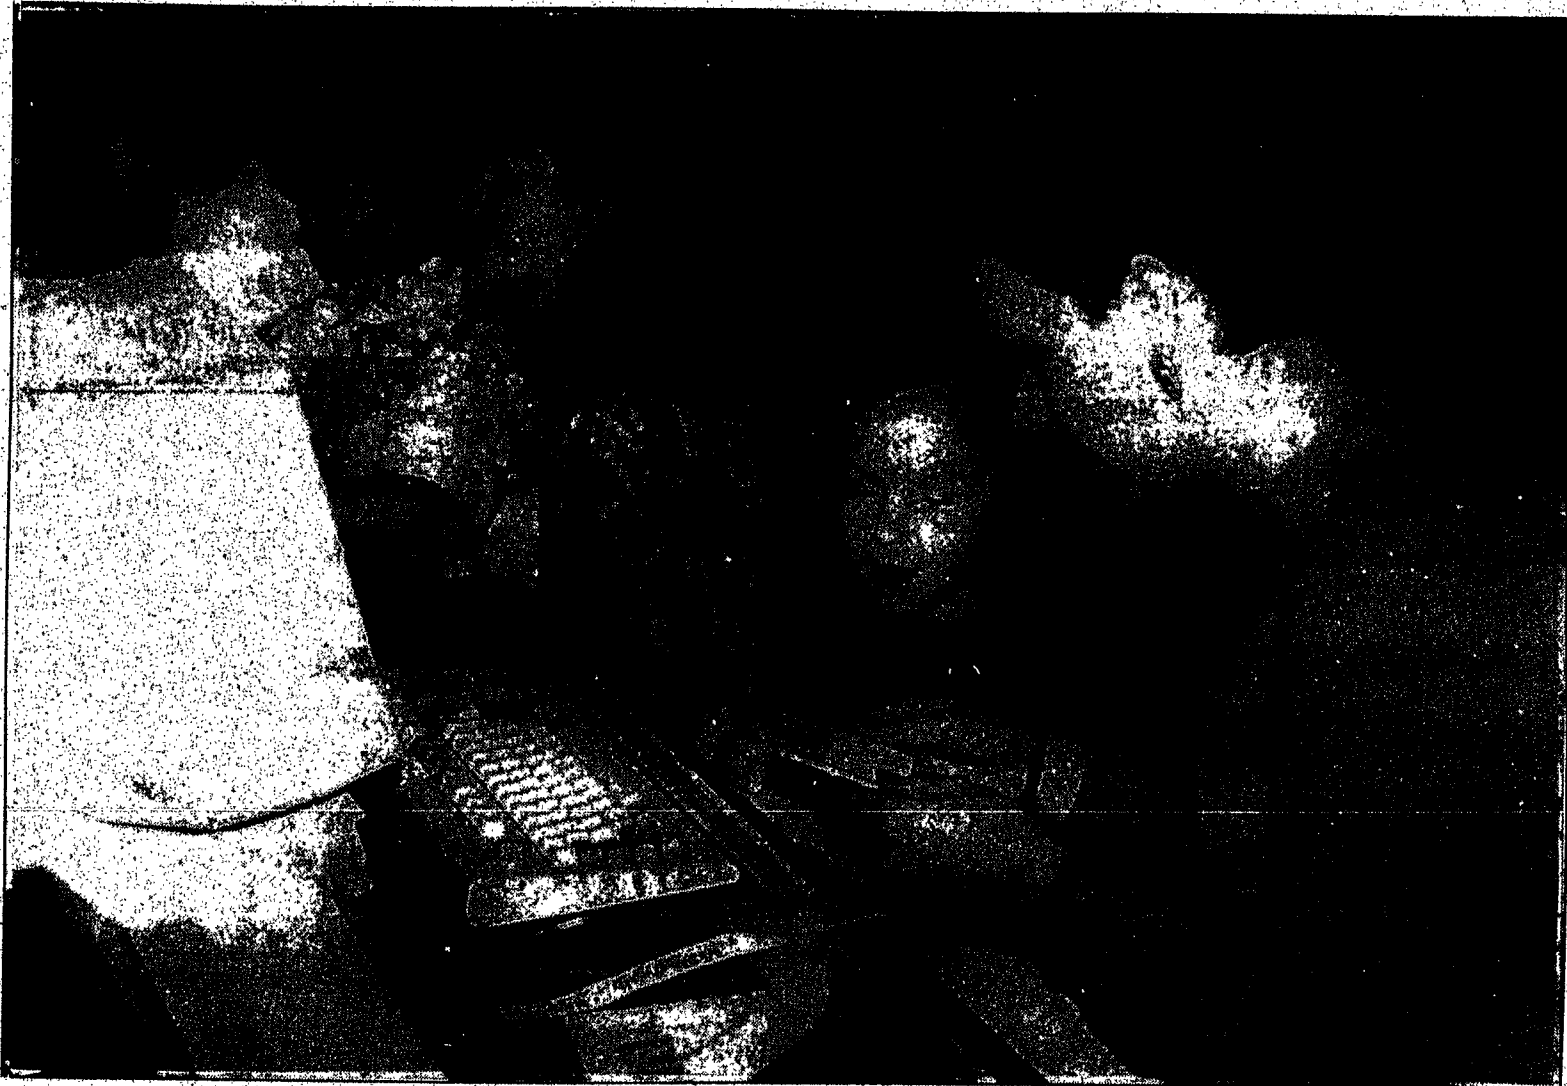

Now Mississippi, under the initiative of Governor Ray Mabus, is participating in the program with the Riordan and R.O.R.D. Foundations to supply the system to every school in the state.

Samantha Breshears demonstrates to her mother, Rita, and baby brother, Michael how the computer works.

Zachary McGee follows the reading assignment while his mother, Brenda, and his sister, Molly, listen.

Connie Debenport follows instructions from her daughter, Lynzye, on how to program the computer for the day's lesson.

Latessa Spencer shows principal Clementine Williams her written work following her time on the computers and in the listening arena. David Breland is busy writing the new words he learned that day.

Morning Stiffness: Arthritis Warning Sign #1

If your mornings start off with stiffness in the joints that lasts more than just a few minutes, you may have a warning sign that can be treated. And the earlier you seek treatment, the better the chances are that the arthritis can be arrested... before it does permanent damage.

There are literally dozens of different types of arthritis, many of which may start off with morning stiffness. In point of fact however, different kinds of arthritis may lead to different kinds of complications. In some cases affecting virtually every organ in the body.

The Rheumatologist is the physician who specializes in the diagnosis and treatment of these disorders. After receiving his or her M.D. degree, the Rheumatologist spends years in either internal medicine or pediatric training programs until he or she obtains board certification in one of those areas. One of our physicians, Dr. Marielis Sedrish, is board certified in both Medicine and Pediatrics. Once the kind of training is successfully completed, the physician then begins an additional two to three year training program (called a "fellowship") in rheumatology, concentrating on the diagnosis and treatment of only the conditions known as arthritis and connective tissue diseases.

The end result of all these years of training is the ability to recognize what kind of arthritis the patient has, the understanding of which tests will pinpoint the diagnosis most efficiently and the knowledge of the most successful treatment are most successful in treating the disease.

Once an accurate diagnosis is made, treatment can be begun and monitored by your regular family doctor. Then working together as a team, the Rheumatologist and your internist or Family Practitioner can keep you on the right track.

Flag presentation

Jean Rollins and Gussie Sorensen, right, were among the audience at the Bay St. Louis Residential Care Center when children in kindergarten through third grade from the Hancock Recreation Association's after-school program sang patriotic songs and gave a presentation, along with American Legion Post #77 Ladies' Auxiliary members, about the American flag. Standing at right is auxiliary member Mary Caillier, who explained the meanings of the stars, stripes and colors of "Old Glory." Sitting, second from the left, is Debbie Downey, one of the after-school program's two workers. Not shown are program worker Cheryl Blanchard; Post #77 auxiliary member Lois Thibodeaux, who participated in the presentation; and North Bay Elementary School principal Kim Stasny, who played the piano as the students sang. Writers Conference set for March 23

The Gulf Coast Writers Association will hold its annual conference March 23 on the Gulf Park campus of the University of Southern Mississippi. A roster of well-known Southern writers will participate.

Dr. J. V. McCrory, director of The Writing Center, William Carey College, Hattiesburg, will be the plenary speaker at the opening session Saturday morning.

Agent Pamela Ahearn, writer Robert Hitt Neill and poet Glenn R. Swetman are returning by request and will be joined by romance writer Meagan McKinney.

The conference will begin at 8 a.m. and run until 4 p.m. It is open to anyone interested in writing.

Registration forms are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to GCWA, P. O. Box 6445, Gulfport, MS 39506.

Sessions planned are: 'Publishing Alternatives' by Neill; 'An Agent's Role,' by Ahearn;

'Poetry For Fun' by Swetman; and 'Romance Writing in the 90s' by McKinney. These sessions will be repeated in the afternoon.

McCrory ranks as one of the state's finest educators and a great supporter of Mississippi writers.

He has been associated with William Carey College more than 20 years and has been active in the literary community as well. Both a teacher and a writer, he will explore 'Education For a Writer.'

McKinney abandoned a veterinary degree when her first novel No Choice But Surrender, won a Reviewer's Choice Award for best novel by a new writer. She proved her point by making finalist in the RITA Award for Best Historical for 1988.

The New Orleans romance writer will share her thoughts, research methods and tell why all novels are not alike in romance writing in the 90s.

Neill is a raconteur extraordinaire and a regular guy published by his own company, Mississippi River Publishing Co.

Swetman, one of the Coast's best claims to fame, was nominated for a Pulitzer Prize in 1980 for his poetry collection Concerning Carpenters and Childhood Saints.

He is author of six volumes of poetry and coordinates the creative writing program at Nicholls University.

Ahearn can relate very easily to writers. Her book To Love No Other was published last year. She is now an agent with Southern Writers Agency in New Orleans.

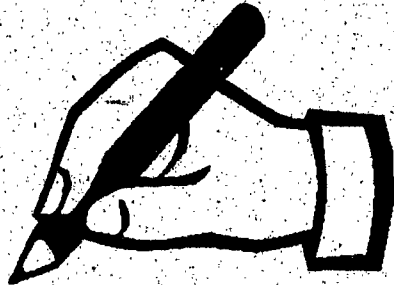

Display rooms will be open during the conference's 1 1/2-hour lunch period, allowing time for attendees to browse through the exhibits from authors, bookstores, presses and related businesses and services.

Authors and businesses wishing to participate in this area can get display reservation forms from Gulf Coast Writers Association, P. O. Box 6445, Gulfport, MS 39506.

A special feature will be the opening reception and reading session Friday evening. Conference writers will read from their works at 7 p.m. in Hardy Hall. There is a $3 charge to the general public.

Winners in the GCWA Let's Write! contest will be announced at Saturday's luncheon.

For registration forms or more information about the Conference send a stamped self-addressed envelope to GCWA, P. O. Box 6445, Gulfport, MS 39506 or call 897-2811 or 832-4797.

besides. He's been a farmer, novelist, columnist, story-teller and publisher.

Neill, a Leland native, is author of The Flaming Turkey, Going Home, and The Jakes, through the Portfolio Day program," Gorove said. "Each year we find the work submitted by these students shows great promise. We're delighted to provide the best of these hopefuls with funds toward their continued education."

Ole Miss art competition set March 23

High school seniors and community college sophomores interested in art careers are urged to enter the University of Mississippi Department of Art's annual Portfolio Day competition March 23.

Margaret Gorove, chair of the Ole Miss art department, said student artists must submit their entries by mail or in person on or before March 23. Members of the department faculty will critique portfolios between 9 a.m. and noon.

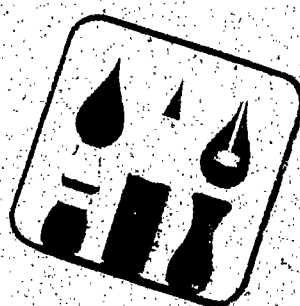

Winners of the Art Merit Scholarship Awards will be announced at 2 p.m. Last year, the department awarded a $2,500 scholarship, two $1,000 scholarships and several small merit awards ranging from $500 to $100. Students who win scholarships this year must notify the university of their acceptance of the scholarships before the beginning of the 1991-92 academic year.

"The Department of Art is always pleased to offer aspiring young artists an opportunity to have their work examined by experienced professionals through the Portfolio Day program," Gorove said. "Each year we find the work submitted by these students shows great promise. We're delighted to provide the best of these hopefuls with funds toward their continued education."

For more details, call the art department at 232-7193.

South Mississippi Bluegrass Jamboree featured Mar. 15

The third annual South Mississippi Bluegrass Jamboree will be on Friday, March 15 at 7 p.m. at the South Mississippi Music Hall, Hwy. 42 East, Runnelstown, Miss.

The music hall is approximately eight miles east of Hattiesburg and next door to Herbert's Fish House.

Award-winning Sugar Hill recording artists Doyle Lawson and Quicksilver, the very best in bluegrass gospel, will be featured. The Sullivan Family from St. Stephens, Ala. will open the jamboree.

Doyle Lawson and Quicksilver were finalists for the International Bluegrass Music Association's 1990 Awards for Entertainer of the Year; Vocal Group of the Year; Album of the Year and Song of the Year.

The quintet sparks an audience with hot picking on a driving bluegrass standard and offers contemporary ballads and a cappella gospel quartets.

Pioneers in the bluegrass music industry for over 40 years, The Sullivan Family, featuring Enoch and Margie, is well known in South Mississippi as they have performed in numerous churches.

This group was host for the 1990 Bluegrass Weekend at Opryland USA and has performed at every major festival and bluegrass venue in America. They have also made several European tours; the most recent tour was of Holland.

Admission is $6 in advance and $7 at the door. Doors will open at 5:30 p.m. For further information call 601-582-5124 or 601-544-7676.

Vicksburg Pilgrimage begins Mar. 23

The homes scheduled for the Pilgrimage include Cedar Grove, The Corners, Balfour House, Martha Vick, Duff Green Mansion, The Harry Harwood, Anchusa, Lakemont and Planters Hall. All Pilgrimage homes are privately owned, occupied and listed on the U.S. Department of the Interior's National Register of Historic Places.
